Our client was seen on an emergency basis at Henderson in March of 2007 after she overdosed on aspirin the previous week. The claimant's mother, with whom claimant lives, testified that the claimant left a suicide note to her son telling him the trees were telling her what to do.

Suicide Warning Signs

According to data from 45 states, 6,256 men and women who had served in the armed forces took their own lives in 2005 - that's 120 suicides every week. A CBS investigative team found that veterans were more than twice as likely to commit suicide that year than non-veterans.

Quick Disability Determination \(QDD\) - Part 1 of Fast-Track Disability Process

Under Quick Disability Determination (QDD), a predictive computer model analyzes specific data within the electronic file to identify cases where there is a high potential that the claimant is disabled and where Social Security can quickly obtain evidence of the person's allegations.

We Will Help you Build a Strong Medical Case

The Law Office of LaVan and Neidenberg will request your medical histories and evaluations from your past and present doctors in an effort to build a strong medical case. We even provide you with special evaluation forms that your doctors can complete to substantiate your disability claim. Not only will this documentation serve to establish your disability, it will also provide evidence of how severely impacted your life is as a result of your disability.
